ABOUT US

Hon. Shri Annasaheb Dange Ayurvedic Medical College and PG Research Centre and Dhanwantari Hospital Ashta, Tal. Walwa, Dist. Sangli, Maharashtra, India was established in the government of Maharashtra, Central Council of Indian Medicine [C.C.I.M.] and Dept of AYUSH, Ministry of health and family welfare New Delhi, India. This is the foremost Ayurved College in Maharashtra with an intake capacity of 100 students of UG and 64 students of PG. We intend to contribute for enhancing performance through constructing the new building for organization and coordination.

INTRODUCTION OF COURSE

This approach to teaching and learning is built on the principle that the best way to learn how to do research is to do research. The goal of this course is to introduce students to the research process—identifying a study question, selecting a study approach, designing a study and collecting data, analyzing the data, and reporting the findings—and that is accomplished by letting students experience all of those steps. Research Methods and Data Management course uses a sequence of three projects to help students move quickly toward becoming confident and competent researchers. This course is conducted by Dept. of research Methotology & Medical statistics of our college

VISION

This course of research will create outstanding climate of support for students and lead them to achieve research work with appropriate data management through EPI INFO

MISSION

1. Student research is real research
2. We encourage research innovations, reflective thinking, flexibility and adaptability in our approaches to our research work.
3. We promote responsible research practices in alignment with ethical principles.
4. We join the world as multidisciplinary health community researchers by being responsive, proactive and innovative

COURSE OUTCOMES

Identify health research questions and specific research objectives.

Find relevant abstracts and access full-text articles using online resources.

Critically read public health articles published in peer-reviewed journals.

Select appropriate clinical study designs for health research.

Develop a proposal for a primary research project.

Identify common challenges encountered during health research and discuss ways to address them.

Describe the process for conducting ethical health research.

Calculate, interpret, and compare measures of disease frequency in populations and measures of association between exposures and health outcomes.

Demonstrate professional writing skills.

Develop professional communication, teamwork, and leadership skills.

Assessment and Evaluation:

Criteria to assessment

1. Attendance
2. Active Participation
3. Problem Based Learning
4. Completion of Project & assignments (P: I +II+III)
5. Completion of Course Examination

PI: Project No.1- Synopsis writing workshop

Synopsis writing workshop has been conducted for PG students and Ph.D. Scholars.

P II: Project No.2- Systematic Review and Review of Literature

A systematic review uses a well-defined search strategy to identify all prior publications on a specific topic and to summarize the findings of those studies as part of a comprehensive analysis of the current state of knowledge on the topic. For this course, the "mini-review" paper will be a synthesis of research results on a very narrow topic.

P III: Project No.3- Synopsis submission

PI: Project No.1- Synopsis writing workshop

Synopsis writing workshop has been conducted for PG students and Ph.D. Scholars.

P II: Project No.2- Systematic Review and Review of Literature

A systematic review uses a well-defined search strategy to identify all prior publications on a specific topic and to summarize the findings of those studies as part of a comprehensive analysis of the current state of knowledge on the topic. For this course, the "mini-review" paper will be a synthesis of research results on a very narrow topic.

P III: Project No.3- Synopsis submission

Assessment and Evaluation:

Criteria to assessment

1. Attendance
2. Active Participation
3. Problem Based Learning
4. Completion of Project & assignments (P: I : II : III)
5. Completion of Course Examination

PI: Project No.1- Synopsis writing workshop

Synopsis writing workshop has been conducted for PG students and Ph.D. Scholars.

P II: Project No.2- Systematic Review and Review of Literature

A systematic review uses a well-defined search strategy to identify all prior publications on a specific topic and to summarize the findings of those studies as part of a comprehensive analysis of the current state of knowledge on the topic. For this course, the "mini-review" paper will be a synthesis of research results on a very narrow topic.

INTRODUCTION OF COURSE

Panchakarma therapy is an integral part of Ayurveda. All Ayurveda learned scholars have highly appreciated the importance and therapeutic efficacy of Panchakarma therapy. The description of Panchakarma is found to be popular in Ayurvedic classics like Charaka Samhita, Sushruta Samhita, Ashtanga Hridayam, Ashtanga Sangraha, Sharangadhara and Vangasena etc.

Classical Panchakarma includes Vamana, Virechana, Basti, Nasya, Raktamokshana which is prime part of Shodhana and requires more attention with physician's care. Technical assistance of these procedures & proper modalities are developed according to demand of time i.e., Yugaanurup Sandarbha. This course will help the participants for better understanding and practice. Keraliya Panchakarma is also included for specialization of knowledge.

10. Demonstrate professional writing skills.
11. Develop professional communication, teamwork, and leadership skills.

PI: Project No.1- Synopsis writing workshop

Synopsis writing workshop has been conducted for PG students and Ph.D. Scholars.

P II: Project No.2- Systematic Review and Review of Literature

A systematic review uses a well-defined search strategy to identify all prior publications on a specific topic and to summarize the findings of those studies as part of a comprehensive analysis of the current state of knowledge on the topic. For this course, the "mini-review" paper will be a synthesis of research results on a very narrow topic.

Assessment and Evaluation:

Criteria to assessment

1. Attendance
2. Active Participation
3. Problem Based Learning
4. Completion of Project & assignments (P: I +II+III)
5. Completion of Course Examination

PI: Project No.1- Synopsis writing workshop

Synopsis writing workshop has been conducted for PG students and Ph.D. Scholars.

P II: Project No.2- Systematic Review and Review of Literature

A systematic review uses a well-defined search strategy to identify all prior publications on a specific topic and to summarize the findings of those studies as part of a comprehensive analysis of the current state of knowledge on the topic. For this course, the "mini-review" paper will be a synthesis of research results on a very narrow topic.

P III: Project No.3- Synopsis submission

Introduction:

Research methods and data management course is required for all students enrolled in MD/MS as well as PhD program. The MD/MS program create to student how work full time, so each class meets for 2 hours block one afternoon each week during the semester. This course is the essential part of their syllabus in which students are expected to have completed by statistics and epidemiology course prior to enrolling in research methods research data management course uses a sequence of three projects to help student move quickly towards becoming confident and competent researchers.

The first project is short review paper a mini review that gives participate in selecting a study question, using abstract database, assessing electronic journal collection and inter library loan services and critically reading the literature. The second project is a proposal for a small scale data collection project. The last half of the semester is dedicated to final project in which student works in groups of 3 or 4 analyze part of publicly available database there are many that are free available from the who and other agencies and analyze their result with EPI-Info and write up the results in a formal report that could be submitted to a pairs or presented at the professional confidence.

PI: Project No.1- Synopsis writing workshop

Synopsis writing workshop has been conducted for PG students and Ph.D. Scholars.

P II: Project No.2- Systematic Review and Review of Literature

A systematic review uses a well-defined search strategy to identify all prior publications on a specific topic and to summarize the findings of those studies as part of a comprehensive analysis of the current state of knowledge on the topic. For this course, the "mini-review" paper will be a synthesis of research results on a very narrow topic.

Introduction:

Research methods and data management course is required for all students enrolled in MD/MS as well as PhD program. The MD/MS program create to student how work full time, so each class meets for 2 hours block one afternoon each week during the semester. This course is the essential part of their syllabus in which students are expected to have completed by statistics and epidemiology course prior to enrolling in research methods research data management course uses a sequence of three projects to help student move quickly towards becoming confident and competent researchers.

The first project is short review paper a mini review that gives participate in selecting a study question, using abstract database, assessing electronic journal collection and inter library loan services and critically reading the literature. The second project is a proposal for a small scale data collection project. The last half of the semester is dedicated to final project in which student works in groups of 3 or 4 analyze part of publicly available database there are many that are free available from the who and other agencies and analyze their result with EPI-Info and write up the results in a formal report that could be submitted to a pairs or presented at the professional confidence.

Course Outcome:

1. Identify health research questions and specific research objectives.
2. Find relevant abstracts and access full-text articles using online resources.
3. Critically read public health articles published in peer-reviewed journals.
4. Select appropriate clinical study designs for health research.
5. Develop a proposal for a primary research project.
6. Identify common challenges encountered during health research and discuss ways to address them.
7. Describe the process for conducting ethical health research.
8. Use statistical software packages to manage and analyze data with EPI INFO.
9. Calculate, interpret, and compare measures of disease frequency in populations and measures of association between exposures and health outcomes.
10. Demonstrate professional writing skills.
11. Develop professional communication, teamwork, and leadership skills.

PI: Project No.1- Synopsis writing workshop

Synopsis writing workshop has been conducted for PG students and Ph.D. Scholars.

P II: Project No.2- Systematic Review and Review of Literature

A systematic review uses a well-defined search strategy to identify all prior publications on a specific topic and to summarize the findings of those studies as part of a comprehensive analysis of the current state of knowledge on the topic. For this course, the "mini-review" paper will be a synthesis of research results on a very narrow topic.

P III: Project No.3- Synopsis submission

Assessment and Evaluation:

Criteria to assessment

1. Attendance
2. Active Participation
3. Problem Based Learning
4. Completion of Project & assignments (P: I +II+III)
5. Completion of Course Examination

PI: Project No.1- Synopsis writing workshop

Synopsis writing workshop has been conducted for PG students and Ph.D. Scholars.

P II: Project No.2- Systematic Review and Review of Literature

A systematic review uses a well-defined search strategy to identify all prior publications on a specific topic and to summarize the findings of those studies as part of a comprehensive analysis of the current state of knowledge on the topic. For this course, the "mini-review" paper will be a synthesis of research results on a very narrow topic.
